Coaches, Team Managers and Club Officials

We all have a responsibility to promote high standards of behaviour in the game.

Behaviour on sidelines is one of the biggest concerns in the game. This includes the abuse of match officials and the unacceptable behaviour of spectators and coaches on the sideline.

Respect your referee today and help us ensure the continuing involvement of referees in the amateur game.

Play your part and observe The Scottish Amateur Football Association's Code of Conduct in everything you do.

On and off the field, I will:

- Show respect to others involved in the game including match officials, opposition players, coaches, managers, officials and spectators
- Adhere to the laws and spirit of the game
- Promote Fair Play and high standards of behaviour
- Always respect the match official's decision
- Never enter the field of play without the referee's permission
- Never engage in public criticism of the match officials
- Never engage in, or tolerate, offensive, insulting or abusive language or behaviour.

When working with players, I will:

- Place the well-being, safety and enjoyment of each player above everything, including winning
- Explain exactly what I expect of players and what they can expect from me
- Never engage in or tolerate any form of bullying
- Develop mutual trust and respect with every player to build their self-esteem
- Encourage each player to accept responsibility for their own behaviour and performance
- Ensure all activities I organise are appropriate for the players' ability level and maturity
- Co-operate fully with others in football (e.g. officials, doctors, physiotherapists, welfare officers) for each player's best interests.

I understand that if I do not follow the Code, any/all of the following actions may be taken by my club, league or The SAFA:

- Required to meet with the club, league
- Required to meet with the club committee
- Monitored by another club coach

Social Networking Sites and Blogs

What this policy covers

This policy sets out the Club's position on employees' use of social networking sites and blogs, whether conducted on Club media and in work time or your own private media in your own time.

Your responsibilities

Social networking sites and blogs offer a useful means of keeping in touch with friends and colleagues, and they can be used to exchange views and thoughts on shared interests, both personal and work-related.

The Club does not object to you setting up personal accounts on social networking sites or blogs on the internet, in your own time and using your own computer systems. However, you must not do so on Club media or in work time.

You must not link your personal social networking accounts or blogs to the Club's website. Any such links require the Club's prior consent.

You must not disclose Club secrets, breach copyright, defame the Club or its clients, suppliers, customers or employees, or disclose personal data or information about any individual that could breach the Data Protection Act 1998 on your blog or on your social networking site.

Social networking site posts or blogs should not be insulting or abusive to employees, suppliers, Club contacts, clients or customers.

References to the Club

If reference is made to your employment or to the Club, you should state to the reader that the views that you express are your views only and that they do not reflect the views of the Club. You should include a notice such as the following:

'The views expressed on this website/blog are mine alone and do not reflect the views of my employer'

You should always be conscious of your duty as an employee to act in good faith and in the best interests of the Club under UK law. The Club will not tolerate criticisms posted in messages in the public domain or on blogs about the Club or any other person connected to the Club.

You must not bring the Club into disrepute through the content of your website entries or your blogs.

Any misuse of social networking sites or blogs as mentioned above may be regarded as a disciplinary offence and may result in dismissal without notice.

You should be aware that any information contained in social networking sites may be used in evidence, if relevant, to any disciplinary proceedings.

Third parties

You must not disclose any information that is confidential or proprietary to the Club or to any third party that has disclosed information to the Club. The Club's Data Protection Policy (detailed elsewhere in the Employee Handbook) provides guidance about what constitutes confidential information.

This policy should be read in conjunction with the Club policy on Computers and Electronic Communications (also detailed elsewhere in the Employee Handbook).

Procedure

Breaches of this policy will be dealt with under the Club's Disciplinary Procedure. You should be aware that the Club regards breach of any part of this policy as gross misconduct that may result in disciplinary action up to and including dismissal without notice.

If you become aware of information relating to the Club posted on the internet, you should bring this to the attention of your manager.

DISCIPLINARY GUIDELINES - INVESTIGATIONS

The following disciplinary guidelines should be adopted by all associations and leagues in membership of the Scottish Amateur Football Association and shall apply to all football which is played under the jurisdiction of the Scottish Amateur Football Association involving a member club.

Match reports received relating to the participation of any member club, player or club official in any other match shall be dealt with as considered appropriate in accordance with the disciplinary procedures.

These procedures will apply not just to reports by match officials relating to incidents and/or acts of misconduct occurring at a match but also to investigations of such incidents and acts which may be considered to be exceptional cases of misconduct.

It is important that the following 4 key points are adhered to throughout the disciplinary procedure and these notes should be adhered to and read in conjunction with Rule 16 of the Standard Constitution (Disciplinary Procedures).

Separation, Disclosure, Representation and Fairness

Separation - Where an Investigation is required the investigation can be conducted by any number of persons including a single official, however if the Investigation decrees that charges are to be applied then any person involved in the Investigation cannot participate in the subsequent disciplinary meeting, including the taking of minutes as the investigator(s) in this instance become the Prosecutor and independence must be maintained at all times.

Disclosure – All paperwork referred to in the investigation must be made available to the appellant and the Disciplinary Committee and if required adequate time given for any material received at short notice for the meeting but considered relevant.

Representation – Where disciplinary action may be taken all parties must be given the opportunity to be represented at the disciplinary meeting either in person or by a nominated person (accompanied by written authorisation from the appellant). They must also be afforded the opportunity to submit any defence in writing.

Fairness – It should be remembered that any disciplinary committee in dealing with cases of misconduct must act judicially and without malice. It is also important that once a decision has been made the relevant Appeals Form is issued where appropriate.

These guidelines are not exhaustive and presented for use in addition to current procedures.

Scottish Amateur FA Meetings – Code of Conduct

Conduct of the General Meeting & Council Meetings

The Chairman is the most important person in the meeting as they ensure the meeting is conducted in accordance with the agenda and the Constitution and Rules of the Association. The Chairman should understand their role and be familiar with the agenda, this will help ensure the meeting is conducted in an orderly manner.

- No business other than that specified on the agenda should be conducted there is no need for “any other business” to be an agenda item as this should be covered by motions. (AGM /SGM only)
- All questions should be directed through the Chairman. Speakers should be called by the Chairman and to preserve order only one person should speak at a time. The Chairman should insist there is no talking across the floor and speakers cease when requested.
- The Chairman should ask that speakers state their name and position relative to their attendance at the meeting and stand when called. If these procedures are not followed a meeting can quickly degenerate into disarray and chaos.
- Motions must be discussed in accordance with the Constitution & Rules of the Scottish Amateur FA.
- The correct conduct of a meeting is not an easy skill to master. It is important to remember that some issues will always divide the membership and policies that are considered by some to be for the good of the Scottish Amateur FA may not be regarded by other members in the same light, so debate and sometimes irresolvable exchanges can be inevitable.
- However it remains essential for the reputation and status of the Scottish Amateur FA that the above basic tried and tested procedures are adhered to and this will help ensure that meetings are conducted in an orderly and effective manner.

Conduct of Individual Members at General Meetings & Council Meetings

Integrity – Members should ensure that this is continually maintained during communications and other interactions and uphold the Scottish Amateur FA's integrity and reputation and do nothing that would bring the Scottish Amateur FA into disrepute or be detrimental to the interests of the Scottish Amateur FA.

Mutual Respect – The Scottish Amateur FA is committed to a supportive environment where members are expected to do their utmost to create a respectful culture that is free of harassment, intimidation, bias and unlawful discrimination of any kind.

Conflicts of Interest – Members are under an obligation to act in the best interests of their League/Association or the Scottish Amateur FA at all times and situations in which competing loyalties could cause the member to pursue a personal benefit must be avoided.

Confidential Information – Members must ensure that all confidential information regarding the Scottish Amateur FA is properly disposed of or kept secure to safeguard this information.

Legal Obligations – The Scottish Amateur FA take its responsibilities to comply with laws and regulations very seriously. Members are expected to comply with applicable legal requirements.

General – Members should:

- Be prepared to account for their actions in an open and transparent manner.
- Conduct themselves in a professional, respectful and courteous manner during meetings of the Scottish Amateur FA and during such other meetings attended in connection with, or on behalf of, the Scottish Amateur FA.

The Scottish Amateur FA relies on the good judgement of individuals to uphold a high standard of integrity. The Scottish Amateur FA expects members to be guided by both the letter and spirit of these principles.

Young Players in Scottish Amateur Football

The Scottish Amateur Football Association as part of the Scottish FA's Children's Wellbeing in Scottish Football programme has produced a guidance document "Young Players Wellbeing in Scottish Amateur Football" which is available for download on the Scottish Amateur FA website. (scottishamateurfa.co.uk)

The document advises of the duties and responsibilities for all members of the Scottish Amateur FA and also the contact details for the Scottish Amateur FA's Safeguarding Officer should there be a need to submit a report.

The SAFA Safeguarding Officer should also be contacted on 07718 289 945 should any member wish to discuss any point in relation to the document.
